

Warm-up document.

This file has no real content -- it exists purely so the Docling worker can force a real model load at startup instead of on the first real user request.